

Emily Temple Abels, Esq. Larmore Scarlett, LLP

Emily Temple Abels, Esq. is an Associate Attorney at Larmore Scarlett, the oldest continuously operating law firm in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania. Emily joined the firm in 2019 after working as a child advocate attorney for nearly four years in Philadelphia.

Emily became a lawyer to advocate for families and individuals, and to help them solve problems. Her practice at Larmore Scarlett focuses on estate planning, including wills, trusts, powers of attorney for financial and health care, and advance directives. She also works in business formation and commercial law, business contracts, real estate, land use, and Orphans' Court or probate court litigation focused on estate and guardianship matters.

Emily received her undergraduate in Anthropology from Haverford College in 2011 and her J.D. from the University of Colorado School of Law in 2015. Born and raised in Chester County, Emily is eager to be able to work in and contribute to her home community.
